COURSE ACTIVITIES

Intelligence and World Affairs

25X1A9a [] reports that the three-day program in the IWA on the CS 25X1A9a went very well. Suggestions for a slight tightening of the schedule and a few changes have been discussed with [] Tony deserves a good deal of credit for organizing this segment.

Two films have been added to the schedule: "Printing for Intelligence," the new PSD film, to be shown on 30 July, and the DCI's "State of the Agency" address, on 2 August. Voluntary student presentations, based on their pre-Agency experiences, will be made on 30 July and 5 August.

25X1A9a [] report a good deal of student interest in the ONE and OCI exercises. The students showed a generally high quality of analytical ability.

The Foreign Service Institute's James Bostain made his usual dynamic presentation on cultural patterns and societal interactions on 29 July.
25X1A9a His talk was part of the day-long cross-cultural segment given by Messrs.
[] who normally handles this part of the IWA course, is in Europe.

25X1A9a [] are already planning the September 25X1A9a course. [] will be handling the CS portion in that running. With the course still six weeks away, enrollment is already up to 34, so we can anticipate another large class.

On 28 July, at the AID Training Center, [redacted] gave a briefing on CIA for 20 students in the AID Orientation.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

1. Last winter [redacted] and [redacted] here in Washington agreed to an exchange of Communist party manuals, which our staff prepared about ten years ago. We have used this for our own reference and at one time in the specialized Communist Party Organization and Operations course as an informal textbook. Bob is now reviewing the content, checking on the security classification (it will be unclassified and unattributed), and revising outdated parts. We have already used some chapters as unclassified readings and will use others for text material in tutorial programs and in the IWA.

2. [redacted] of OER, on rotation to the faculty of the National War College, has asked if we could assist Prof. Houston, who is handling one of their elective courses in the theory and practice of Communism. He is interested in guest lecturers and probably in reference material. [redacted] participated last year. We have agreed to provide help.
